

Care & Support

Care and Support after a Hospital Stay

A hospital stay involves acute care and is usually followed by a period of recovery when the patient's care and support needs are higher than in their daily life. Some home and community support programs provide short-term support following hospitalisation. This can avoid prolonged hospital stay and in some cases help avoid a premature re-admission.

Some programs are available to public hospital patients of any age in a wide range of circumstances. Other programs target frail aged people and/or people with disabilities. Private health funds and private hospitals may also have schemes to support patients upon discharge.

Questions to ask

If you go to hospital for a scheduled procedure such as elective surgery you may wish to ask some questions prior to admission, to make sure you know about any support available when you return home. If you are admitted to hospital in an emergency situation, similar questions should be asked as soon as possible, before you are discharged.

Discuss with the hospital's medical staff what limitations you are likely to experience and for how long, so that you can determine the required assistance.

Consider which types of support you are going to need. These may include assistance with:

- Personal care, e.g. showering, dressing, eating
- Meal preparation
- Shopping, banking and bill paying
- Transport to return home and to attend subsequent medical appointments
- Rehabilitation/therapy services (e.g. physiotherapy)
- Home adaptation e.g. handrails, ramps
- Basic cleaning and home maintenance
- Laundry or linen service
- Mobility aids, equipment to assist with daily tasks
- Nursing care

Most hospitals have a social worker or discharge planner with whom you can discuss the support available and who will refer you to the appropriate service providers.

If you are caring for a relative or friend who is frail or has a disability and you are going to hospital, the Commonwealth Respite and Carelink Centres may be able to assist with arranging respite care. Tel. 1800 052 222 (a free call from most fixed phones) to contact your local Centre.

If you have private health insurance check what services might be provided under your plan and what conditions apply.

Paths to recovery

The paths suggested by the hospital team may include a short-term package of care and support services, a stay in a rehabilitation hospital and/or a permanent change to your care arrangements.

If the hospital staff assesses that you will need long-term support or permanent residential aged care they may request an assessment by the Aged Care Assessment Team (ACAT). The ACAT will determine your eligibility to receive a Commonwealth-funded aged care package or a placement in an aged care facility. The ACAT may also establish that you are eligible for the Transition Care Program.

Health Care @ Home / Country Home Link

These are SA Government-funded free short-term services that support people of any age after an acute hospital admission. Clients must meet the criteria of early discharge from a metropolitan public hospital.

Health Care @ Home provides nursing care, assistance with personal care and allied health services to people living in the metropolitan area. Referrals are accepted from public hospitals, GPs, residential care providers and community-based health professionals/teams. The Metropolitan Referral Unit manages all requests and referrals from health practitioners and may refer you to specific providers such as nursing agencies. Metropolitan Referral Unit, tel. 1300 110 600

Country Home Link provides services to people living in the country regions who have been acute patients in metropolitan public hospitals. Services are provided in the client's home and may include personal care, nursing and provision of equipment. Referrals are made by the metropolitan hospital discharge planners through the Metropolitan Referral Unit.

Transition Care Program (TCP)

Short-term care packages for older persons who have been in hospital and are expected to benefit from the restorative/rehabilitation focus of the program. It can be delivered in the person's home or in an aged care facility, usually for up to twelve weeks.

The program is funded by the Australian government and managed by the state government. Eligibility is determined by an Aged Care Assessment Team (ACAT). Access is managed by referral through the relevant hospital to the TCP program in each region.

The client's contribution is up to 85% of the basic daily rate of single pension, when the services are provided in an aged care facility, or up to 17.5% when provided at the patient's home. A fee waiver is available for those in financial hardship.

For general enquiries contact the relevant SA Local Health Network: tel. 8342 8690 (Central); 7321 4001 (Northern); tel. 8275 1197 (Southern); tel. 8561 2186 (Country).

Other services

Calvary Community Care Short Term HACC Program This program provides subsidised short-term support for frail aged and people with disabilities who are eligible for Home and Community Care (HACC) services and require extra assistance. Referrals can be made by Home and HACC service providers and Aged Care Assessments Teams (ACATs); self-referral may be accepted.

Up to 20 hours of support over a maximum of four weeks' intervention is provided, including personal care, respite and domestic assistance. Service hours are flexible to ensure that client's needs are met. It is available in the Adelaide metropolitan area, Adelaide Hills, Southern Fleurieu Peninsula and sections of the northern and western country areas. Hospitals' own discharge services - All hospitals assist with access to some support for patients upon discharge. Services provided vary and may include specific short-term treatment to patients in their homes who would otherwise need to remain in hospital. Referral to other services is also provided.

Private services - A number of private and not-for-profit organisations provide full-fee home support services, catering for anyone, including post-acute patients. These services are usually charged on an hourly basis. The range of services offered varies. They may include personal care, domestic assistance, personal transport, day and night respite care and medication reminders or administration. Some providers will offer care coordination and planning and may charge a one-off set-up fee.

Other services that may assist you could include provision of equipment such as mobility aids, lift chairs, over-bed/over-chair table, self-help poles, electric lifting/standing hoists, slings. Some items may be available for hire, as well as for sale.

The Independent Living Centre can provide free information on a range of disability equipment and other aids to daily living. Tel. 1300 885 886

The Royal District Nursing Service provides mobile health services including specialist nursing, home support, allied health and transition services in areas such as wound management, diabetes management, palliative care, continence management, health care for people with disabilities, HIV-AIDS, and dementia management. Services can be provided in the client's home or at one of the nursing centres located across the metropolitan area. A subsidised fee may apply depending on the client's circumstances and referral pathways. Tel. 1300 364 264.

Other nursing agencies may provide similar services.
